CANNING SEASON NEAR AT HAND

Some useful suggestions are made here in connection with questions that come up annually at canning time, arising from the experience of each canner in her own kitchen.

Proportion of Water for Fruit Syrups

Consistency	Sugar	Water
thin	1 cup	3 cups
medium	1 cup	1 cup
thick	1 cup	1/2 cup

Syrups to Use With Different Fruits

(a) This syrup for soft fruits—strawberries, raspberries, peaches, apricots.

(b) Use a thin syrup for hard fruits—apples, pears.

(c) Use a medium or thick syrup for sour fruits—currants, gooseberries, cranberries.

How to Extract and Can Fruit Juices

Crush the fruit to extract the juice. As an aid the fruit may be heated in a double boiler. Strain the juice through a jelly bag. Bring the juice to the boiling point. Pour the juice in hot sterilized jars and seal. Place a stopper of cotton in top of bottle. Filled with the hot juice, (not boiling) they are placed in water up to the neck and held for 40 minutes at a temperature of 165 degrees F. A fitted cork is pressed into the bottle over the cotton.

Uses of Canned Fruit Juices.

Unsweetened may be used for jelly. The juices are good for sherbets, ices, fruit sauces, gelatin desserts.

How Berries May be Kept from Spoiling.

(a) Wash berries. Sprinkle with sugar and allow them to stand 24 hours in a cool place. Pack in jars and pour over them a hot syrup made from the juice.

(b) Hull and wash strawberries. Simmer for 15 minutes in a syrup of one cup of sugar and two tablespoons of water to a quart of berries. Allow berries to stand in syrup over night. Pack trays in hot jars. Cover with the hot syrup. Process 20 minutes in the water bath. Seal.

As a way to put on soap-fasteners is to sew on the under part first, then rub chalk that will show on the goods on top of each, lay the goods on and press gently. The chalk mark will show just where each top part is to be sewed on.

FOR TREATING SUNBURN

Tender skin, unaccustomed to the burning rays of the sun, should not be exposed to the hot sun.

If it is, the result often is sunburn and much discomfort.

A layer of suitable cream is a good protection. The cream should be spread on thickly and allowed to sink into the skin.

Then enough should be taken off, if one is particularly about his or her appearance, to keep the face from appearing too greasy.

On coming into the house the face should be washed of the cream with warm water and a pinch of bicarbonate of soda.

Then moisten the face with a lotion made of: Tincture of arnica, four ounces; glycerine, eight ounces, and rose water, four ounces.

If, in spite of the precautions, the face becomes red, sensitive and swollen, the first thing to do is to soothe it with compresses of sterilized gauze, dipped in solution of equal parts of which boric acid and hydrate of chloral.

Keep these on, constantly moistening them as often as possible.

A HUNDRED YEARS OF COLLARS

Mrs. Hannah Montague, of Troy, New York, Made the First Detachable Collar a Century Ago—Became Tired of Washing Mr. Montague's Shirts.

Back in Queen Elizabeth's time men used to wear starched lace ruffs around their necks as large as cart-wheels. Styles gradually became more sensible, but even when men began to wear collars they did not conceive of shirt and collar being separate articles of apparel. The detachable collar came into the world just one hundred years ago in Troy, N.Y., when a young woman, Mrs. Hannah Lord Montague, desperately weary of washing so many shirts with her fastidious husband, rebelled one blue Monday, seized a pair of shears, and removed a soiled collar from a comparatively clean neckband. Thus, the first detachable collar was its own security.

By that act, remarks the New York Times, Mrs. Montague started something. The scene of her early industry and ingenuity now produces annually detachable collars of the value of more than $40,000,000. In the score of factories that make them the capital outlay is $40,000,000, and this tremendous industry employs 15,000 operatives. 80 per cent of them women. Troy is planning a celebration in 1927, the centenary of the collar industry, and a new million dollar hotel in the city is to be named for her.

Too Much Washing.

In 1817 Hannah Lord married Orlando Montague, a maker of women's shoes, a man of imposing stature, neat in habit and proud of his fine linen. Mrs. Montague was also proud of his fine linen, but in those days a great deal of laundry work was done in the home, and Mrs. Montague was confronted with the task of washing mountains of her husband's fine shirts.

During those busy Mondays—and possibly Tuesdays and Wednesdays, too—Orlando's hard-working spouse often pondered over the circumstances which made it necessary to launder a whole shirt because there was a shirt rim of Troy coal-dust on the neckband. As she wrote to her family in later years: "It seemed but the inspiration of the moment" to seize a pair of scissors, snip off the fold-over collar, then attach a strip of white tape at either end, sew up the saggy ends of both collar and neckband and present the final result for Mr. Montague's vertical inspection.

Mrs. Montague displayed her labor-saving device to a few neighbors and the news spread like wild-fire. Collars which could be washed and ironed separately and quickly, while a shirt went on forever, staggered Troy housewives with visions of leisure wrung from toil.

Commercial Possibilities.

Quite appropriately, a gentleman of the cloth, the Rev. Ebenezer Brown, a retired Methodist minister and proprietor of a notep store, studied the commercial possibilities of the new separate collar. Within a year he and his family became the center of the collar-manufacturing business. His wife and daughter fabricated the first collar to be sold as a distinct piece of haberdashery; and the Rev. Mr. Brown peddled them in a basket from house to house.

In 1822, Troy's collar factory was established. The establishment many improvements were brought into being—sprinkle collars, buttonholes and the accompanying buttons and studs. Presently the collar had developed into an article of many forms, requiring more than fifty operations in its manufacture. The industry continued to center in Troy because efficient knowledge of various processes in collar-making were handed down from mother to daughter for generations.

FASHIONS OF TODAY

Women will never go back to the old, harassing style of clothing. What has been arrived at in fashions today is, on the whole, dignified, healthful and sensible.

The present-day fashion of jumpers is a good one. They provide extra warmth when it is required, and are both easy to make and comfortable wear. Indeed, they are far to answer the objections that might be made against the loose open necks and the very short sleeves so much in vogue at present.

As a matter of fact the present fashion in the matter of frocks is the prettiest and healthiest that has been seen since the days of classic drapery.

THE SEASON'S HARMONY

Owing to the far-reaching influence of the ensemble no hat is considered smart this season unless it contains a color which brings it into identity with the dress or coat. No patchy color effects are permitted. Different colored borders, woven or sewn onto a dress, are the only possible excuse for a different colored hat, and even then it must reproduce one of the shades of the frock. The trimming should not distract the eye, which is as important in military as it is in dress.

DO YOU MAKE A GOOD OMELET

For a fluffy omelet separate the yolks and whites carefully and beat them well. To the yolks add as many tablespoons of milk as you have eggs, and enough salt for seasoning, and mix well. Then fold in the fluffy whites, until they are well blended, but be careful not to stir roughly and so release the air which you have taken pains to beat in to the whites. Have a hot fry pan, or iron skillet if possible, heated and the bottom covered with butter, melted, but not browned. If the butter gets too hot, it may cause the omelet to burn and the flavor will be ruined. Also choose a pan of such size that the mixture covers it about one inch deep at the beginning. Pour in the egg mixture and cook the omelet at low, even heat. This is one of the secrets of a perfect omelet—to cook it at moderate temperature. The egg then has a chance to expand and retain the omelet before the proteins of the egg and milk set. If a gas or an off-burner of small size is being used, move the pan about so that the omelet will cook around the edge of the same size it does in the center. When the omelet has browned on the bottom, put it under a low flame in the broiling oven, or on the shelf of a hot plate, or over a few minutes until the top sets. Or it may be turned, covered, and on, during the whole cooking period, and so cook the top of the omelet. When done, Crease it through the middle with a knife, and turn it over with a spatula or broad knife, and turn it off. It is only a matter of pouring over it melted butter and serve at once.

Fluffy omelets are a little easier and quicker to make because the yolks and whites are beaten together, not separately. Milk is added in the same proportion as table-spoons to each egg. Use a large heavy pan, with melted butter, again being careful not to have it too hot and to cook the mixture slowly and evenly on both top and bottom. When it is a golden brown, roll it in the pan, and turn it out on to a hot plate.

Remember this above all else in making omelets, whether fluffy or flap—keep the temperature moderate and even; cook them thoroughly and serve them piping hot.

WENNING YOUR HAIR

Do not comb your hair until the last thing and then be sure it hangs evenly. If you have used a pattern which allows for a bump on a straight line your work is easy. A curved hair is harder to manage. On a wool dress quite a wide bump, say four inches, looks well. Some women prefer three; it really is a matter of choice and sometimes of necessity because of shortage of material. Measure very carefully and put pins at close intervals before braiding. If the material is at all heavy it will turn in the edge of the bump. It usually lies flatter to style a row of binding tape along the raw edge and sew the tape in turn, to the skirt. You should be very careful to make your bump exactly even. If rounded, and if you stitch it with machine, do so on the right side, as it is not to be better. Personally, I prefer a bump done by hand in folded stitch if you can in it well, with small, even stitches. What ever way you do it remember it can't be slighted you can take time enough so that it will be good.

VOTE YEA AND NAY ON ONE QUESTION

Some of Town Aldermen See Question from Two Angles and Vote That Way — What Difference in Foreclosing a Mortgage on June 10 Or June 3.

(By Mills)

At a special meeting of the town council on Tuesday night, June 2, Durham and Mosley made and seconded a motion to the effect that the town solicitor foreclose the mortgage on the Lincoln Rubber Products factory at once. Reeve Mannell voted with them but the other four members of the council voted against the motion.

Another motion was put to the effect that this company be given until the next regular meeting of the council on June 16, and if it is not paid over the mortgage be foreclosed "the next day".

This gives the company seven clear days to raise the money and it gives the town a chance to get $1,000 by waiting one small week.

The point is this: Those that voted for the motion to foreclose immediately, voted against the motion to foreclose a week later.

The question is why? If the action of foreclosure would be good on June 3, it would be no materially different to take that action one week later—and by waiting that week the town stood a chance to be $1,000 better off.

Was it because the first motion did not meet with unanimous approval that these three voted against the second motion? If it was not "pave", why was it?

Citizens would be interested in learning.

THOROLD SCHOOL GIRLS DRILL CORPS

Musical Comedy "Baby Mine" Given in Moore's Theatre On Friday Night For Benefit of Fire Department.

The Thorold School Girls' Drill Corps, under the auspices of the Grimsby Fire department, gave an evening of splendid entertainment in Moore's theatre on Friday night, June 5, to a well filled house.

The entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed and from a theatrical and artistic standpoint the performance for amateurs, was superb. Of the same entertainment given in the home town a couple of weeks previously the Thorold Post gives an account which fits the case very well and which we reprint as applicable here:

"The Patricia theatre was a packed last evening by an interested audience, come to see the girls drill corps again in public appearance, and to enjoy the music and other specialties provided on the lengthy menu.

"The playlet, or comedy, was 'Baby Mine.' It ran through the evening in several acts, and was full of ludicrous situations and scenes from start to finish. Time will not permit an extended notice of the play, only that the characters were represented by Fred Martin, Shirley Telf, Harry Lawson, Margaret Cross, Isabel Doble, Mrs. Martin, Miss Sulman, and Miss Eddie. Their work was fully equal to it not better than the average work of professionals in the same line of stage work, which speaks well not only for their own appreciation of their parts, but for the good work in rehearsal done by their instructors, Mr. Whitaker and Mr. Fendell. There was scarcely a hitch from beginning to end.

"The musical work was also superior, the girls having acquired a stage quality of expression that made it a pleasure to hear from the most distant point. The drills conducted by Mr. Martin, the songs sung by the different members, and the costumes, were all notably good. Mrs. North presided at the piano, and Philip's orchestra filled the evening.

"On the whole, it would be hard to improve on the work of the evening, and it goes without saying that the girls will be again crowded tonight at the second appearance. Those who attend will not be disappointed.

FOUGHT FOR U.S.A. BUT KICKED OUT

Grimsby Men After Gaining Citizenship By Fighting for Yanks in France Has Papers Revoked.

People often wonder why some of their neighbors, who have knowledge of the United States, are no better than the average citizen of that benighted country. But every day we read of some display of ignorance of officials over there, and pay little attention because they do not directly affect. Here is a case a little nearer home: read it; and tell why it happened:

Detroit, June 8.—Harvey Schaeffer, 37 years old, resident of Grimsby, Ont., was deprived of his American citizenship in United States Court here today in spite of the fact that he served with the American Expeditionary Force overseas, and pleaded his intention of returning to Detroit.

An Assistant United States District Attorney told Judge Simons the State Department had asked him to petition for a revocation of Schaeffer's naturalization papers on the grounds he had taken up permanent residence in Canada.

Schaeffer was a British subject, living in Chicago when he enlisted with the army in 1917 on this country's entry into the war.

POORER, WISER THEY COME BACK

Many Farmers Returning from the United States — Greater Opportunities They Hear of Were Mythical.

Like the prodigal son, many Canadians who left their country to seek what they hoped would be better prospects in other lands, are returning home. They have learned that the opportunities in Canada are equal and in many cases better than in distant fields.

The Canadian Government Immigration Officer at Detroit gives the details of 25 Canadian families who have returned to take up farms in Canada within the past few weeks, most of them having farmed in different parts of Canada before they went out and went to the United States, where they thought they could do better. The hopeful prospects they expected there did not materialize, and, realizing that Canada, after all, is the best country for them, they are returning to their homeland again.

The Canadian Government Immigration Officer at Fargo, N. D., also reports a number of Canadian families returning recently, among whom is C. F. Koespeck of Fargo, N. D. Mr. Koespeck went to the Macleod district of Alberta in 1912, where he prospered as a farmer for eight years. In 1921 he returned to his old home in North Dakota. He has made arrangements to return to Alberta for the reason that he has realized that farming conditions are much better there than in his old home.

From other officers of the Department of Immigration and Colonization comes further evidence of the backward movement of new farm settlers from the United States.

One of the most interesting cases that has come under the attention of the officers of the Canadian Department of Immigration and Colonization recently is that of John B. Hiebert, who, with his wife and thirteen children left with a number of other Manitoba families to settle in Mexico nearly three years ago. Both parents and the thirteen children were born in Canada. In 1922 John Hiebert sold his farm of 250 acres at Herbert, Sask., and left for Mexico. He located at Chidahuahua, Mexico. There he found farming rather a difficult proposition owing to indifferent soil, lack of water, poor markets and other causes. A few weeks ago Mr. Hiebert and his family returned to Canada with very little left of the three thousand dollars in cash they took with them. They are going back to Herbert, Sask., where they intend to take up land again and resettle. The Hiebert family is one of 35 Manitoba families that have returned to Canada from Mexico this year.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT
By R. W. Munn, President American Society for Thrift

Too much economy is not thrift. Too much spending is not thrift. When we eliminate waste we are following the precept of a true and rightful thrift, but it is to be borne in mind that over-economy or hoarding money does not lead to the results that are as truly thrift as the results of over-spending.

False economy, carried to the point of hurting the delicately adjusted balance of business, means eventual waste. Loss of trade by the retail merchant is passed along to the jobber who in turn passes it on to the manufacturer. The result is unemployment, a form of waste that is undesirable for everybody and harmful to all.

True thrift may be said to consist of two things: Prudent saving and judicious spending. If you are in a quandary as to whether this or that transaction constitutes real thrift, you can usually answer it by determining whether, in the final analysis, it means the elimination of waste.

Too much spending means at once a waste all along the line. It leads to over-expansion and speculative activities which continue in their natural cycle until they end in sharp reaction and acute business depression.

True thrift may be said to consist of two things: Prudent saving and judicious spending. If you are in a quandary as to whether this or that transaction constitutes real thrift, you can usually answer it by determining whether, in the final analysis, it means the elimination of waste.

BACK BROKEN IN BAD AUTO SMASH

Genav Leister of Buffalo Victim of Bad Accident On Cape Horn Curve — In Hamilton Hospital.

An accident involving seven people four of whom miraculously escaped, while two women received serious back injuries and one man had his back broken, occurred about 3 o'clock Sunday morning at Cape Horn about three miles S. of Hamilton, on the Queenston highway.

George Leister of Buffalo, was the owner and driver of the car in which were his brother, twenty-two years old, three sisters and two nieces, and when the car ran off the highway on the curve it turned over twice, while the whole party were thrown from the seats up was torn away. Gen. Leister, one sister and the two children were thrown practically clear, and in his frenzy to release the three under the car Leister lifted the side of the seven passenger Dutch touring car which his sister dragged the unconscious forms from beneath.

At the time this had taken place another car came along and Dr. C. W. Elmore of Beamsville was called. He found Genav Leister had his back badly broken and the two sisters to have serious back injuries.

The two women were brought to Beamsville where they remained unconscious for several hours.

After dressing the other injured the doctor rushed the young man to Hamilton General hospital.

The party were waiting from Buffalo to Toronto where Miss May Leister one of the injured women resides on St. Clair avenue. The other sister, Mrs. Mother, who was injured was the mother of the two little girls and resides at 751 Broadway, Buffalo.

COFFEE ARONA OFFENDED

The English coffee houses seems to have had its origin in Oxford, so far as can be discovered. In the year 1650 a Jew, named a "Coffee House" at the Angel, in the Parish of Saint Peter in East Oxon, and there it was by some who delighted in novelty.

In 1654 Ciriaco Johnson, a Jew and a Jacobite, sold coffee in Oxon. In 1655 Arthur Tillyard, an apothecary, sold it publicly in his house against "All Souls College." In a New View of London, published in 1709, one James Fair, a barber, who kept the house (now called the "Hibernian") in 1677, was summoned to appear before the court of St. Dunstan's in the West, for making and selling a sort of liquor called coffee, to the great offence and prejudice of the neighbourhood.

TAKING VOTE ON CHURCH STEPS

Non-Concurrence Claim Interim Moderator Refused Them Key To St. Anne Church—Notes Said Voting Illegal.

(Hamilton Herald)

In accordance with a resolution passed at a meeting of non-concurrence held last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Frank Mingle, farmer of St. Anne's church, but owing to the refusal of Rev. Mr. Gandler, St. Anne's, who is interim moderator, to give the key of the church, a table was placed on the steps and voting was carried on from 7 to 8 o'clock. About half of the membership were present.

J. R. Goring, elder, of Smithville, acted as returning officer, and A. W. Tester poll clerk.

The non-concurrence maintain that Mr. Gandler's intentions were to take St. Anne's automatically into union. They state that when they asked for a vote Mr. Gandler said that was absolutely impossible—they had no minister or office bearer, consequently they could not vote.

The advisory committee of the continuing Hamilton presbytery insisted that they ought to get an opportunity of expressing themselves by ballot if they desired to do so. Voting continued on Sunday at 3 o'clock and will open on Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 o'clock each evening to all eligible to record their vote.

A notice tacked on the door of the church stating that the voting was illegal created some amusement.

B.C. STRAWBERRIES ARE ON MARKET

(Farm & Home, Vancouver, B. C., June 4.)

"Our berries are coming in, though not abundantly so far," said President H. P. Simpson of the Berry Growers' Union of B. C. to Farm and Home yesterday. "They are going out to local dealers at $2.00 to $2.50 per crate through the Canadian Fruit Distributors, the new co-operative brokerage house. The price for the Prairie markets is today $4.00 per crate Loh. Vancouver."

Harvest and the Minton districts are the main sources of supply at present, and the crop is short.

Gooseberries started very well, indeed, on the market at $2.00 per crate to the trade. That figure was rapidly forced down by increasing volume of supplies to $2.00 and today the f.b. price for gooseberries shipped through the union to Prairie points is $1.75.

Raspberries are coming along well; the recent rains benefited them as well as the strawberries. The rasp crop will be at least 10 days earlier than usual if climatic conditions remain favorable.

Loganberries are doing well now, but except for the Chilliwack district, the crop is not a good one. It, of course, is also earlier than usual.

The berry season in the Kootenay is much earlier than the average and shipments are going out from Wye-dell (Creston) to Crow's Nest line points and Lethbridge.

On the south side of the Fraser River locals are managing assembling and shipping plants for berries at Chilliwack, Port Kells and Abbotsford under the auspices of the union. Other points filling similar duties are at Mission, Whonnock, Henny and Richmond, the last named on Lulu Island.

COMEDY (GAME) AT BEAMSVILLE

Geo-Bee Exhibition of Baseball Runs the Gamut From Ridiculous to Sublime—Practice Makes Perfect.

The Grimsby—Beamsville attempt at spreading the elements of a baseball team is laudable and is fairly effective, but the stunts of these elements are too erratic to make a good machine. Apparently the trouble is the lack of oil—grease—the kind that comes out of a field called practice.

Prima-time "Bud" Reid piles up four errors. Then in Port Colborne's seventh effort he makes a one-hand catch of a stalling line drive putting the first man out; fumbles the ball when the next man hits; and then by snappy work makes the assist in a double, retiring the side.

Splendid baseball spots; ball that he is capable of playing; but offsets it by—lack of practice. Chas Fisher on second starts off his fielding in the second by a nice catch, in the second after Strong had walked, Clark threw to Fisher to stop a steal; Fisher and McVicar got Strong between them. Fisher did not get another chance until the fifth, when he fumbled and let Devore to first. Then O'Reilly hits to Reid; Fisher gets Devore at second and doubles O'Reilly at first. Then he adds two more in the sixth to the comedy column.

And the pitchers! Oh! Heavenly Kitty! Three tried boys, who have proven in the past that they could do something, walk one after another, onto the mound and—swat, swat, swat. Only three men walked, but there was a strike out. Three 3-batters, six doubles and nine singles.

Practice? Let George do it. The box score does not half tell it, but here it is!

GOLF SWINGS

By the brothers, Frank Thompson, present Canadian Amateur champion, and W. J. Thompson, Ontario Amateur champion and last year's champion of Canada. They are native-born and resident Canadians, members of a family of five famous golfing brothers.

Now suppose one were to accept the proposition that it were possible to build a swing by stages or piecemeal as is so often done; whom would he select as a model? Would he accept Vardon, Hurd or Taylor of the old school, or perhaps some one of the new school, Mitchell Hagen, or Baranen? Not any two of these players swing the club in the same way. When I say this I do not mean there are minor differences but differences that are typical. One could not fancy swings of leading players more different than those of Vardon, Taylor and Hurd. The latter has a distinct sway in his swing with a comparatively flat swing. Taylor has an exaggerated body tilt with little else which, of course, makes his swing also flat. Vardon's swing has a noticeable bend at the waist among other features which makes his swing upright going up but flat coming down. All these players have other features connected with their swings but the points mentioned stamp each swing as a type.

The other players mentioned all swing differently. Some have more twist than others and some more bend at the waist or dip, Mitchell perhaps, has the most perfect swing of any of the leading pros, not excluding Hagen. Mitchell's swing is a blend, and as someone has so aptly said, it is like a smooth blend of all to give the best results.

In the midst of all the diversity of swing, when should one follow? Well, if our observations are correct, the answer should be apparent to all, namely that one should swing the club in his own way. Does this mean that there are no fundamental principles underlying the swing of a golf club, and that each one is to be left to his own whims and caprices as the final arbiter? Not at all. There are some fundamentals but these do not consist of those things which we ordinarily consider fundamentals in golf.

Heretofore we have went to look upon a fixed head, a straight left arm, right elbow close to the side, tucked hips, a straight left leg as essential, and some other features as essential, when as a matter of actual practice, not one of these points are entirely indispensable, for one can mention good golfers who violate some one or more of the so called essentials. There are some points in connection with the golf swing, irrespective of the players that seems to be universal. They are not many in number and, perhaps, in the last analysis, these points may legitimately be reduced to one. To boldly state at this juncture this point would reflect on the readers imagination, and, is more serious, would reveal the necessity for continuing these articles.

Have you ever heard a ball pitcher wind up before he makes his throw, and have you ever heard of a great pitcher who had not a preliminary wind up? And surely you have never noticed two pitchers — an identical wind ups. The important thing is not so much how the wind up is made, as the fact that there is one. Well the same thing obtains in golf. There is the preliminary waggle, and the waggle is — varied as the number of golfers, and yet there is a first class golfer living who has not some preliminary movement prior to the swing. Proper Mitchell's and Duncan's preliminary wind up especially in iron shot, resemble each other, but are far from duplicate.

On the whole the waggles of a great number of good golfers resemble each other somewhat. But here again I think it would be wrong to attempt to copy any one else. I think one is more or less apt to develop a proper preliminary movement if its purpose is kept in mind and I take it that the purpose is to get the feel of the club, feel the club bend is a time honored injunction, and anyone wishing to improve at golf would do well to keep this saying ever before him. One can not feel the club bend when the hands and arm muscles are tensed. Indeed to feel the club bend properly, the hands must be very active and as the grip is, so is the swing. A dead grip gives a wooden swing, a finger grip produces an elastic swing. That the feel of the club is the important thing can be shown in a negative way. During the cold weather one is apt to lose the "touch" of the club. This is, of course because the cold numbs the fingers so that they cannot grip the club.

REPORT ON SALE OF ONTARIO PRODUCE IN MOTHERLAND

(b) Establishment of national export grades, grade designations and regulations.
(c) Providing a federal inspection service which may issue export grading certificates, with power to refuse the granting of certificates unless the product is in accordance with adopted standards.
(d) A national advertising program covering a number of years, the funds for which may be provided by a small per-package and per-carriage charge, no advertising to be undertaken until the fund shall have reached $300,000.

(e) As a volume of some products, especially bacon and butter, is essential to success, a production program covering a period of not less than ten years with provisions for the creation of a fund which may be drawn upon during periods of adjustment made necessary by reason of over-production or reduced purchasing power.
(f) Funds for the purpose of making adjustments or for stabilizing of production to be provided jointly by producers, provincial and federal governments, and exporters, in proportion to the tonnage exported.

"A national effort along these lines," Mr. Baxter comments, "should obtain for our province the best results. If, however, a national scheme is deemed impracticable, the adoption of a similar program for Ontario should result in a substantial improvement in our position in the markets of the United Kingdom and its better financial returns to our producers. In either case, organization is the keynote to success—organization in producing areas linked up with a central marketing bureau in the United Kingdom."
In closing his report, Mr. Baxter explains the methods which underlay his investigation. The markets of the United Kingdom, it is stated, were studied in the light of the countries from which supplies were received and of the marketing methods which such countries employed, in the light of the relative position of Canada to other countries in the production of specific products, in the light of consumer, retailer, wholesaler and other interested sentiment towards Canadian goods, and in the light of transportation costs. In connection with all these aspects of the marketing problem, Ontario's position was especially considered.

The success with which individual Ontario products are meeting in the United Kingdom, markets, was also inquired into, and is reported upon by Mr. Baxter. Apples are declared to be generally well received, and exports in the shipping of peaches are also declared to have given promise for the future. In the latter connection, however, it is recommended that no further commercial shipments of peaches be undertaken until investigation has been made to determine the lowest temperature at which they can be landed in the Old Country. Modest, inexpensive experiments upon the latter points are urged for the present season.

With regard to butter, Mr. Baxter reports that "Canadian butter does not enjoy an enviable reputation on these markets." Uniform standards and uniformity of quality are, therefore, urged upon butter exporters as essentials to success in the markets. Cheese from Canada is stated to enjoy high prestige, but to suffer somewhat from the large proportion of poor quality which is exported. Bacon from this country is declared to be growing in favor, and the adoption of recognized brands to maintain the identity of the product is suggested. The poultry trade is specified as one which is capable of being increased, and Ontario honey is commented upon as being not jelled by the honey from any other quarter.

With respect to marketing and distribution methods in Great Britain, Mr. Baxter states that the great bulk of produce sent to the United Kingdom markets is consigned, a very small portion of it being sold on an f.o.b. shipping point basis. On this account a representative organization for the shippers is essential. The adoption of a national brand or trade mark is also declared to give certain countries an advantage, in ensuring the identity of their products, and a national inspection service is recommended as being of highest value.

"The lack of efficient regulations to prevent the export of low-grade products, before advertising can be carried on profitably on a national scale, the quality of the product must be safeguarded by the adoption and maintenance of uniform standards. When confidence in the product has been established, the wholesaler and retailer will safeguard the producers' advantage by effective window and show displays."

ALL SHOULD KNOW THIS
Do all our readers know that it is the legal duty of anybody who finds an article of any kind to advertise the same at once? Some may say, "I have by holding a thing without selling anything about it for an indefinite period, such article becomes their own property. If for some reason the 'lost' owner has not advertised his loss. That is a wrong idea. It is only after an article has been legally advertised and the owner fails to turn up, that the finder has the right to possession."

No Satisfactory Substitute for Knitted Summer Underwear

EACH season brings new underwear ideas and innovations, yet knitted underwear—Penmans Balbriggans—still leads in underwear value.

Penmans Balbriggans can be obtained in all styles including loose-fitting styles, so desirable for summer. These loose-fitting garments have all the advantages of slimy summer underwear with twice the strength and three times the wear. They do not tear.

Made in bleached white and cream shades with no sleeves, half sleeves or full length sleeves, or in ankle and knee lengths.

"The best known numbers are 222 and 44. The number appears directly below the trade mark in the cloth label attached to every garment. Also made in lower priced lines, which, however, always bear the trade mark. If your dealer has no stock he can obtain it."
